DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-3, 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention:

In claim 1, there is no language given to the second support member to define it structurally. AS written this is a surplusage part with no functional limitation. The language after the recitation of the "second support member" is directed to "the first support member." Since applicant's arguments are also directed in the same manner it is not considered a typo. Please show in the next response which structure in your specification provides the functionality of the "first support."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, and 6-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant Admitted Prior Art; AAPA hereinafter; in view of Okubora et al. [6,445,475] and Birch et al. [6,461,058].

AAPA disclose an optical data link [figure 15A] comprising a mounting member [2] having a substrate [4] with a plurality of holes, and a plurality of electrically conductive pins [8] passing through said plurality of holes of said substrate; an optical element assembly [6], mounted on said mounting member;

AAPA disclose the claimed invention except for: a plurality of circuit boards comprising a circuit board having a pair of surface with an electrically conductive layer connected to at least one pin of said plurality of electrically conductive pins, each of said pair of surfaces mounting an electronic component; and means for supporting said circuit board so as to be spaced apart from said mounting member .

Okubora et al. disclose an optical module [figure12] with a plurality of circuit boards comprising a circuit board [12] having a pair of surface with an electrically conductive layer connected to at least one pin of said plurality of electrically conductive pins, each of said pair of surfaces mounting an electronic component; and means [40] for supporting said circuit board so as to be spaced apart from said mounting member .

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate Okubora et al.'s circuit with AAPA's module for the purpose of increasing capacities.

Birch et al. disclose an optical transceiver module [figure 4b] comprising a first [34] and second [37] support members for supporting of said optical element assembly.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to use the supporting members design of Birch et al. with AAPA and Okubora et al. for the purpose of preventing cross-talk between the electronics.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over, AAPA as modified, as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Chen et al. [US 5,337,396].

AAPA as modified disclose the claimed invention except for the cover being electrically conductive.

Chen et al. disclose an optical module [figure2] comprise an electrically conductive cover [14].

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate Chen et al.'s teaching with AAPA as modified for the purpose of providing EMI shielding.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 3 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the prior art of record does not teach or suggest in the claimed combination a substrate (second circuit board) having holes to accommodate components mounted on the bottom of the first circuit board .

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, and 6-7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

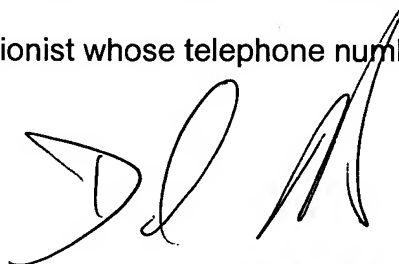

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
